RETURNED TO LEGISLATURE FOR FOURTH TIME

Social Credit Choice of Electorate
Throughout the Province

The Provincial election held in Alberta on Wednesday, August 4, was a decisive Social Credit victory.

In the Wainwright Constituency, cur resident M.L.A. Mr. Wm. Masson was elected by a large majority. The latest count we have been able to obtain was S.C.—2908, Liberal—836, C.C.F.—867.

In our local polling booth in Irma the count was Mr. Masson, S.C.—149, Mr. Wright, C.C.F.—40, Mr. Kelly, Liberal—34.

The count in the electrification plebiscite was about even.

We understand that the Irma electors turned out quite well and that about three quarters of those eligible cast their ballot.

IRMA WINS AT VERMILION

On August 4, the Irma senior ball club motored to Vermilion to take in the baseball tournament. In the first game Irma came out on top of Lloydminster with a 6-4 victory. Irma picked up after having been two runs down at the end of the second inning. In the semifinals, Irma came up against Holden. At the end of the fifth, things looked gloomy for the Irma Club. Holden being ahead 5-2. After each team scored once more, Irma came up with a thriller of a finish as Ralph Lukens came up with a triple that looked like the game. On a recount it was found that the scorekeeper had made a mistake and the game had to go on. With two out, Bob Kirkman was intentionally passed and he promptly stole second. The pinch-hitter Bill Inkin, hit a single to score Lukens and win the game for Irma.

In the final Irma met the home club and in the top of the first, Vermilion went up 5 runs. In the bottom of the second, Irma got to three Vermilion pitchers for 8 runs and in the following half Vermilion tallied once to boost their total to 8.

In the bottom half of the third the game was called on account of darkness and Irma split 1st and 2nd with Vermilion.

Sharon Luther League

After Arlene's report the three girls, Arlene, Eunice and Lilly, sang the song which the Leaguers had composed enroute to Grande Prairie to the tune of "Onward Christian Soldiers." Eunice then gave her report, giving in detail each session of the convention Fri. July 30. That day the Family Altar was the special theme, all panel discussions and inspirational messages being built about that topic.

One item on the program, different, but touching, was the actual demonstration of a Family Altar by Dean Vinge of Camrose Bible Institute and his family. Friday evening was Mission night and Missionary Talbert Ronning of China showed his splendid set of slides. A greeting was also read from one of our Canadian missionaries in South America.

Eunice reported on the excursion to Fort St. John. Two buses and 13 cars made quit a caravan as they left Grande Prairie on Monday morning, August 2. The drivers of the buses were eager to point out any landmarks or outstanding places of interest. At Beaverlodge they were told that everyone has running water in his home because artesian wells supply this luxury. The scenery here was particularly beautiful and the crops looked splendid too.

The snow-capped Rockies were visible about 100 miles distant. At 11:30 they arrived at Dawson Creek. How curious the people were to see such a flock of young people invading their town. After a fine dinner by the Lutheran Ladies of Dawson Creek the caravan was off on the Alaska Highway. This road is very wide and has few ditches.

There was much bush and Indian teepees were to be seen here and there. As lumbering is the chief industry of the Indians here, often piles of sawdust were to be seen. When they arrived at the mighty Peace River the buses stopped and the Leaguers flocked to the water in order to drink and also to wade. As they neared Fort St. John the site of the old fort was pointed out down in a valley. The Lutheran church of Fort St. John is very small, but so clean and neat. By the way, Kenneth Reitan wired it when he was stationed there. A short service was held in the church and then they were driven out to the airport. Nowhere on their trip were any gophers to be seen. They just don't exist up there. But the pack rats are a substitute. These rats are notorious thieves, especially of shiny articles. However, they replace what they steal with something dull in color. They drove by Valhalla Centre on their return trip, taking the opportunity to sing for Dr. Ronning, a veteran missionary of China, now retired. Because of ominous clouds the trip to Sexsmith and LaGrace had to be cancelled.

Lilly Nelson concluded the reports of the convention days by telling about the sessions for Saturday and Sunday, July 31 and August 1. On Saturday, the oratorical contest was held with five competing young speakers. The first award was won by Frances Bray of Edmonton, the second by a Saskatoon boy. At the business meeting it was learned that there were 270 delegates registered. From four to eight p.m. a Pocket Testament League outing was held. The choral union also had a song service on one of the street corners in the evening. On Saturday evening a special "Faith in Action" program was featured, some of which was broadcast. Greetings were brought from various organizations of the church and by Sister Magdalene Klippen of the Deaconess Home in Chicago. A member of the town council of Grande Prairie also welcomed the Leaguers officially. The guest speaker, Rev. Myrus Knutson, of Milwaukee, spoke on the theme: "Heard God's Word Today in Your Walk Through Life."

The Sunday morning service was broadcast from CFGP, the speaker being Rev. M. A. Dale, district president. The choral union gave a very fine program on Sunday afternoon.

An Encouraging Situation

IN THE PAST IT HAS BEEN FOUND that the rate of employment is closely related to the general prosperity of the country. During the depression of the 1930's, unemployment was widespread and wage levels were extremely low. Both employment rates and wage levels rose to record heights during the war, but there was some concern at that time as to whether these might fall again, when service personnel returned to civilian employment, and the great war plants were no longer operating. Events have shown, however, that there was no immediate cause for anxiety, since almost all industries have experienced labor shortages, and wage rates have increased in almost every type of employment.

Employment Rate Has Increased

Recent figures, issued by the Dominion government, show that the employment index now stands above that of any wartime year, although during the war farms and factories were operating at their maximum capacities, and there were nearly 1,000,000 men and women in the armed forces. Recently an employment index was made, using figures obtained from Canada's nine leading industries, and this index shows that, using figures for 1941 as a base of 100, the rate of employment is now 124.3. This is 3.7 points higher than the figure for 1941, and 14.5 points above the level for 1946. The average weekly earnings in these industries have also risen considerably, having advanced to $39.37, as compared to $35.66 last year, and $32.53 in 1946.

Living Costs Also Higher

Further figures compiled on present employment conditions show that the total wages paid to Canadian workers now stand at an index of 155.8, as compared to 100 in 1941. During the past two years there has been an increase of 51.2 points in these figures. On March 1 of this year, it was estimated that 2,038,803 workers in Canada's nine leading industries were receiving a total of $80,257,584 each week. There is, however, a less encouraging aspect of the situation, in the figures dealing with unemployed applicants for employment, which show that on March 15, those seeking employment numbered 184,000 which was 9,000 more than at the same time in 1947. By April 15 this figure had been reduced by 4,000, and it was expected at that time that there would be a shortage of labor before the end of the summer, due in part at least, to the rising demand for farm help during the summer months. Although the rise in wage and employment levels is encouraging, the fact that living costs have advanced more rapidly than wages during the past year cannot be overlooked. However, records of the Labor Department have shown that industrial wages have risen 74 per cent, since 1939, which is slightly more than the increase in the cost of living during that period.

Boy Loses Arm Feeding Bear

PEORIA, Ill. — A 250-pound black Himalayan bear chewed off the arm of John Dickerson, 12, who climbed a fence to feed the animal. A nearby concessionaire, A. B. Eade, grabbed a cane and stuck it in the bear's mouth, forcing it to release the boy. Chewing off above the elbow, the remainder of the arm had to be amputated at the shoulder.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

A Greek scholar, visiting a woman's college in the United States, was asked whether he would do the institution the compliment of translating their college motto into Greek. He agreed, and asked what the motto was.

It was placed before him, and he read the words: "Pep without purpose is piffle."

A young woman was being seen off at the railway station. "No, don't bother to come any farther—you'd have to get a platform ticket," she said to her escort.

"Oh, that's all right," he protested. "It's worth more than a penny to see you off."

The school master was explaining vulgar fractions. "If I take a potato, cut it in half then in quarters, and then in halves again, what shall I have?" he asked. "Chips, sir," was the immediate response.

A hunter was showing his trophies to a group of visitors and explaining how he had acquired the various exhibits. "See that elephant?" he said. "I shot it in my pyjamas."

"My goodness," murmured the surprised young lady, "how did it get there?"

Caller—What, no attic? How can you get along without one to store your junk in?

Hostess—Oh, you see, we give it all away as bridge prizes.

Son (breeding into father's office): "Well, dad, I just popped in to say 'hello'."

Dad: "Too late, son, your mother just popped in to say 'hello' and she got all my change."

Half way down the quiet, inky black and narrow street Paddy, was suddenly pounced upon by a burly individual, wearing a mask. Thrusting a revolver into the Irishman's ribs, he snapped out:

"Come on! Money or your life!"

"Faith," cried Paddy, "You can take me life. Ol'm saving up all me money for my old age."

Mr. Stone: "Is Miss Sugar at home?"

Servant: "No, sir."

Mr. Stone: "Please tell her that I called. Now don't forget, will you?"

Servant: "No, sir. I'll go and tell her this minute."

Mother—"Now, Junior, run upstairs and get baby's nightie."

Junior—"I don't want to."

Mother—"Oh, well, if you're going to be unkind to your new little sister she may put on wings and fly back to heaven."

Junior—"Then let her put on her wings and get the nightie."

"What is a debtor?"

"A man who owes money."

"And what is a creditor?"

"A man who thinks he's going to get it back."

Filters For Rain Water

This double-chamber filter from two oil drums uses an ingenious automatic-dumping bucket to distribute the flow between the two chambers, sending clean water to the cistern.

ONE of the objectionable things about having a cistern for rain water is that not only does it get the rain water but also a considerable amount of dirt, grit, sticks and other material washed into it from the roof. This can be avoided by using a system like that shown here. This drawing illustrates a rain water filter consisting of two oil drums, both partly filled with filter material of sand, charcoal and pebbles, as shown.

To operate a double barrel filter of this type, an automatically tipping bucket is used to divide the water from the down spout evenly between the two filter units, so they can take care of a rapid flow. The discharge from the bottom of the oil drums is caught in two flat funnels and directed into the cistern filter pipe. This type of filter does very nicely for summer weather, but will freeze in winter time and become inoperative.

Another method of providing filtration for cistern water is to build a double brick wall across the cistern, so as to divide it into two parts. These two brick walls should be placed 4 or 5 inches apart, this space being filled with sand, which is the filtering medium. Mortar is used only in the horizontal joints of these walls, the bricks being butted against each other in the vertical joints.

This provides plenty of space for water to flow from one side of the cistern to the other. The down spout is led into one side of the wall, while the suction pipe from the pump draws the water from the other side of the wall. In this way all the water used has passed through this filtering sand.

SUGGEST TERRIBLE WEAPONS AS PREVENTION OF WARS

Rare Breed Of Cattle Reported

TRENTON, N.J.—One of the rarest breeds of cattle, the Canadian, can be found on a Basking Ridge Dairy Farm in Somerset county, the New Jersey Department of Agriculture reported.

Owned by John Astor, the farm houses the first herd of Canadians in this state and third in the country. Hundreds of pure-bred animals are imported annually from Canada, but the true "Canadian" in name and origin is smaller than the average black and white Holstein or fawn-colored Guernsey shipped to New Jersey from Canada, the department said.

The Canadian breed is a hardy animal, development of cattle imported from France early in Canada's history. It has many of the characteristics of the Jersey but does not produce as much milk.

Advantages that have proved its worth in some of the more rugged areas of Quebec province are that it can live and flourish on scant pasture and can withstand conditions too tough for most breeds. It is a combination herd, acceptable both as a dairy and beef producer. It is seldom seen in Canada outside Quebec.

CONTINUE PRICE CEILINGS ON TINNED VEGETABLES

OTTAWA — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced that ceiling prices would be continued on canned tomatoes, tomato juice, peas, corn, green and wax beans, peaches, pears and plums.

The maximum prices allowed canners are those fixed last November 27 by the schedule to Order A-2459 as amended by A-2461. These maximum prices will also apply to these imported canned goods, except that canned peaches, pears and plums imported prior to July 19 will remain subject to mark-up control only.

It is expected that with the removal of the sales tax on these items ceiling prices will be somewhat lower for the consumer.

REMAIN A BACHELOR RECIPE FOR LONG LIFE

VANCOUVER — Alvarez Rudolph Habsburg has a recipe for long life.

It is: Eat plenty of pie and take long walks; fall in love, if necessary, but remain a bachelor.

He should know. It was his birthday and he claims he is 114 years old.

Mr. Habsburg says he was born July 8, 1834, in Halifax. The church which contained his birth records was destroyed by fire many years ago. He now lives in a rest home.

BRITISH WORKER HAS NEW SWIM METHOD: "WALKS" ON RIVER THAMES

LONDON—Joe Simms, 51-year-old railroad worker, "walked" across the Thames here from Chelsea embankment to Battersea Park, about 220 yards, in 17 minutes.

Simms, who weighs 185 pounds, claims to have perfected a new method of progress through water after 18 years research. As he "walked" across the Thames his arms were folded across his chest and only his head showed above the water.

A spectator who followed in a boat said, "The whole time he was in the water he appeared to be perfectly erect." Simms said after his "walk" across the river: "That is something the Yanks can do not."

"My movement is made with a slow cycle action," he said in discussing his technique.

An Unjust Subsidy

For two years prairie farmers have been obligated to subsidize all the people of Canada with cheap bread and flour, losing over $1.00 a bushel on approximately 70 million bushels each year. Farmers, we suggest, should protest to their Members of Parliament against the continuance of this unjust subsidy.

Read What American Tourists Say About Alberta Highways

By Kirk Bates
Wisconsin Journal Travel Editor
Banff, Alta.—If you are going to the Canadian Rockies, go by train, plane, pack horse or camel caravan. Don't unless you have a heavy service jeep that can take a lot of punishment, attempt to drive. Many roads in this sector of Canada are highways such as most Wisconsin folk have never, not even in their worst nightmares, dreamed about. There are a lot more roads—main highways over which you must ride, too—that are nothing less than terrible. Stop any American tourist in these parts and ask what he thinks about the roads hereabouts and you will be answered with either a wall and a sob or a burst of profanity. More than likely there will be stories of split tires, broken springs or wheels. The roads in this sector of Canada have bumps, a lot of them too. But far worse—and far more numerous are the holes. Once there were very bad roads were macadam. Now they are merely series of ruts, ridges and jolting holes. The worst sector of the bad roads slow a motorist down to five miles an hour. Over some of the best sectors it is possible to go 30 miles an hour without wrecking a car. The American who buys gasoline here, by the way, is paying 10c a gallon tax into the Alberta treasury, the money theoretically to be used in maintaining highways. Not much is being done on even the worst Canadian highways and if the workers were out in full force it would take them at least five years to get the roads of western Canada in shape for decent or comfortable motor travel.

PRESSURE SAUCEPAN CANNING

Of interest to homemakers at this time will be the following suggestions from Mrs. Vera MacDonald, Supervisor of the Home Economics Service on home canning with the pressure saucepan.

A pressure saucepan may be successfully used for small jobs of home canning provided the saucepan meets certain requirements, and provided processing times scientifically adapted to saucepans are used.

For home canning, the pressure saucepan must be tall enough to hold pint jars on a rack with the saucepan cover locked in place, and the saucepan must have a gauge that allows pressure to be controlled accurately at 10 pounds. To sterilize vegetables for safe-keeping, processing times at 10 pounds pressure must be 20 minutes longer in a saucepan than the times recommended for pressure canner. This is because the pressure canner. This is because the pressure saucepan heats quickly, takes only a minute to exhaust its air content, and cools rapidly after the jars of food are processed. In a regular pressure range these periods are longer than in a pressure saucepan, and provide a greater share of the heat to sterilize food for safe keeping.

A new home canning bulletin is now available from the Home Economics Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. In this bulletin will be found processing times recommended for the pressure canner.

"The union of Newfoundland and Canada, two North American democracies in the British Commonwealth of Nations, will add strength to both."—Premier MacKenzie King.
